"Is the government willing amend the 1912 act and give the office the same privileges as gary?" queried Mr. Boyle.

"I have already stated that government policy will be decided later in the house later," replied Mr. Brownlee.

The bill was given second reading with Dr. Stewart dissenting.

UNITED STATES REPRESENTATIVE
Ruth Burke, Inc., 1111 Jasper Avenue, Ed., Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. 1111 Jasper Avenue, Ed., and St. Broadway, New York City.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1923

A CANDID ADMISSION.
Trustee Barnes says there has been political maneuvering in connection with the question of restoring arts representation on the public board to the teachers' alliance. He says that the board of trustees is not a political body and that the teachers' alliance is not a political party. He says that the board of trustees is not a political body and that the teachers' alliance is not a political party. A NEW "TRUST BUSTING" BILL.
Premier King announces that a new bill to break up combines, mergers and trusts is to be put through at the present session of the legislature. The provisions of the bill will be awaited with considerable and general interest. Of late years the line of distinction between an allowable trade agreement and a non-permissible combine has become somewhat blurred. If the new measure forbids agreements for price-fixing purposes it will place a heavy burden on the farmer and labor societies and the labor unions. If it only prohibits those who have capital to invest, while leaving all others free to combine and boost their profits as they please, it will have to be defended on the principle that "What we are not in on we are against."

MONEY FOR COAST ELEVATORS.
The bill providing a loan of five million dollars to help build elevators at Vancouver was given its first reading in Parliament, seemingly without any opposition. The bill is a measure of considerable magnitude and multitudes of the interests which profit through the eastward shipment of the prairie crop that speaks well for the members. It can be explained only on the supposition that the eastern representatives refused to allow themselves to be used as megaphones by parties interested in the trade. The bill is confined to the coast route, and handed out justice to the West regardless of political consequences. The Alberta farmers and the people of British Columbia certainly have to "kiss" coming as to the treatment of their petition for grain shipping facilities at the coast. The response was prompt, and the amount provided is quite as large as could be expected.

DOING IT BY DEGREES.
Mayor Duggan says arrangements have been made with firms which did not pay their business taxes last year by which these arrears may be liquidated on the installment plan, and that as a result the taxes are coming in at a satisfactory rate. Perhaps property-owners would also find it easier to pay if they did it on the monthly or quarterly basis. The installment system has become quite common in the purchase of automobiles, cameras, phonographs, and other articles which cost more than the purchaser can conveniently spare at one time, but for some reason the payment of taxes on that plan does not seem to have gained popularity here or elsewhere. That certainly is not because the tax bill is not large enough to make it worth while to "chop it in chunks." It might pay the city's debt more easily in the way of a discount to encourage taxpayers to turn in their taxes as they are paid.

WESTWARD, THE STAR "ETO."
Under the redistribution bill now before parliament Alberta will gain four new members. Saskatchewan five, Manitoba two and British Columbia one. New Scotia loses two members and the other provinces retain their present representation. The House of Commons now consists of 285 members, and after the redistribution will be 245. The four western provinces will gain twelve members, and the three prairie provinces eleven. At present the prairie representation is more than eighteen per cent of the total, and will be twenty-two per cent after the redistribution. Despite regional crop failures, small profits in wheat growing, and the repatriation of people from the prairies, the balance of power continues to shift to the section of the Dominion, though not at a rate to satisfy the rash order that the West should take itself out of the Dominion if it cannot dominate the

A PAIRLY SAFE JOB.
The disasters in New Mexico and British Columbia are reminders that coal mining in Alberta is a comparatively safe occupation. There have been tragedies in mines in this province, but they have been few and far between. The loss of life is not to be compared with the toll taken in recent years by explosions which have occurred in other fields. The Alberta miner does not take the risk that his contemporaries elsewhere have to take when he goes to his daily task. His calling is here more nearly on a par with that of a soldier, as regards the danger of meeting injury or death while at work.

BLIZZARDS BLOCKED RAILWAYS AND THE COAL BIN.

While it has to be confessed that the weather in Alberta this week has been neither balmy nor calm there is some consolation in knowing that it has been behaving worse, actually or comparatively, nearly everywhere else. Vancouver diffidently admits that Tuesday was the coldest February day on record here, and following that concession it suggests that the weather was rather a couple of feet of snow. Manitoba and Saskatchewan agree that a real blizzard has been raging on the open prairie, and left the transportation system about as dead as King Tutankhamen. Chicago, Detroit, Toronto, Montreal and New York in turn all note the arrival of the eastbound storm wave, and describe it in a way to lead a critical-minded stranger to suggest that there was not much difference between what occurred in those parts and the "howler" which swept the plains a day earlier. Alberta, as usual, got the best of what was going. It has been a week of "solid" cold weather, with a good deal more wind than there seemed to be any need for. But we have neither had to lengthen the coal bin at the station nor have we had to have anything that resembled a blizzard. In fact there hasn't been a decent flurry of snow all week, and there has been no drifting, unless in the open country along the eastern border. Trains are running on time, except those which got tangled up in snow banks in the mountains or in Saskatchewan the local street railway system has been operating on a regular basis, and there are no reports of tie-ups or delays anywhere. At the worst the residents of this province only paid the penalty of the company they have to keep. With the water pipes exploding in Vancouver and a Nor'wester roaring across the prairies, the province in general naturally had to suffer "in sympathy," though not in proportion.

There has been also the more substantial satisfaction of knowing that they have the means of keeping their homes and business places warm and their industries going, with no more trouble or expense than that of digging it out of the ground. The foundation of a large section of this province is constructed of coal. How vast the deposit may be in area and how far down it may extend are matters of only idle speculation. There is more of the combustible material "in sight" than will be required in the next ten thousand years, and that is about as far as the present generation can be expected to take a personal and practical interest in the fuel question. Most of the people in this province live near to a coal mine, and the only reason they do not live in the coal fields is only a few hours run from operating pits. There is a world of comfort, as well as a material advantage, in living in a coal producing territory. It is like the case of the farmer who has a wintry blast to know that the bin is full and that it can be refilled without any doubt or delay when it gets empty. Albertans probably cannot appreciate the mental hardships that come from being within easy reach of an inexhaustible supply of coal. Those of them who have spent a winter confined to the coast route, and handed out justice to the West regardless of political consequences. The Alberta farmers and the people of British Columbia certainly have to "kiss" coming as to the treatment of their petition for grain shipping facilities at the coast. The response was prompt, and the amount provided is quite as large as could be expected.

Two Games In Two Days Too Much For Eskimos

VICTORIA, B.C. Feb. 16.—Two games within 24 hours proved too much for Eskimos and they had to acknowledge their first defeat of their swing around the coast long here tonight. The score was 4 to 0.

The Eskimos, game to the core, tried to give all credit to Victoria for the splendid game they played, but it was quite evident from their shooting and combination they were laboring under a big handicap. The visitors opened with great speed in each period, but they were unable to maintain it, and the Cougars were able to slip through and score.

FAMOUS BOWLER TELLS YOU HOW

EXPERT OFFERS HIS ADVICE TO BOWLERS

By Jimmy Smith

Many people make the mistake of trying to learn the secret of bowling in one week. It is not so simple. It requires time, patience and a desire to improve. If you seek to master the art of getting the pin.

I would advise the novice to start using a straight ball. He can either start it down the center of the alley or on the right side and let it work into the pins.

Regardless of the style of delivery used the most important thing is that the ball hit the pins. It is preferable to hit the head pin full rather than miss it entirely.

Hit The Head Pin

Send a straight ball into the head pin. It is missed, but many a strike is made when the ball hits the head pin full, a hit that is usually regarded as a possible strike.

Great stress is not necessary to succeed. Most of the errors are made in the delivery. A ball that is delivered with a change to work as the ball comes through.

Control is the main thing. The most serious error is to let the ball go. When one achieves control he can increase his score at the device.

Curve Ball Desires

A hook ball is generally considered the most desirable device. If a bowler uses a hook ball he must be able to keep the ball on a straight line. If he does not, he will miss the ball. If he does, he will miss the ball. If he does, he will miss the ball.

WHEAT BOARD IS STILL SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION IN LEGISLATURE

Establishment of a Permanent Voluntary System of Marketing Urged

UTILITIES ACT WAS VOTED FIRST READING

Gov't Members Claim the Wheat Board Will Be Economic Benefit

Although nine speakers took the floor during the afternoon and carried along the verbal barrage to other sectors of the front, the debate in the legislature over the wheat board was still going strong when the legislature adjourned on Monday evening and had promise of being up another afternoon of the house at least.

From the government ranks there spoke in favor of the administration amendment, Hon. Mrs. Parbury, A. M. Matheson (Vegreville), Lawrence Friesen (Taber), E. G. Cook (Pincher Creek), N. S. Smith (Olea), and J. G. Farnham (Hibston). Opposition was voiced by Dr. Davidson, newly elected member for Calgary, supported the amendment from the opposition benches, while Dr. Stone (Clearwater) spoke in favor from the Liberal benches. A. R. McLean and W. W. Hufferman, Edmonton members, from the Liberal group took part in the debate, the former urging that the government establish a permanent voluntary marketing system, the latter appealing for unanimity of action in the house in attempting to solve the problems which now confront both the urban and rural sections of the province.

Dr. Davidson's Speech
W. M. Davidson, in advancing a permanent wheat board which the house of the day was called upon to consider, said that the board was not a "wheat board" but a "wheat marketing board." It appeared to him that the government was trying to put a system on the farmers by suggesting that they were not to have a wheat board but a wheat marketing board.

DECLARES THAT GOVT WILL NOT ESTABLISH A WHEAT BOARD

Whole Scheme Is "Political Hocus-Pocus" Asserts Hon. J. R. Boyle

DEBATE GOES ON IN UNEVENTFUL WAY

Government Members Continue to Profess Faith in Wheat Board

The direct charge was made in the legislature Tuesday afternoon by Hon. J. R. Boyle, Liberal leader, that the provincial government would not establish the proposed wheat board, that the whole scheme as first advocated by President H. W. Wood was a "political hocus-pocus," and that the government would come back to the house after this year with some other "ingenuous plan" as to why the board could not be constituted in the second attempt.

From the Liberal benches the government was subjected to strong criticism. Hon. J. R. Boyle, Liberal leader, who thought the government was trying to establish a "political hocus-pocus," said that the government was trying to establish a "political hocus-pocus," and that the government would come back to the house after this year with some other "ingenuous plan" as to why the board could not be constituted in the second attempt.
